Specialized Medical and Consulting Services for Unions and Benefit Funds

Assessments for a Safe Work Environment
Our team of OSHA-trained, certified industrial hygienists and workplace safety specialists enhance safety by providing on-site services, including:
- Ergonomic assessments and adjustments for workstations, equipment and job-specific tasks
- Assessments for potential injuries, exposures and environmental hazards
- Respirator fit testing
- Hearing conservation program guidance

Experienced Leadership
Jacqueline Moline, MD, MSc, FACP, FACOEM
Vice President, Chair, Population Health

Ken Spaeth, MD, MPH
Director, Occupational and Environmental Medicine of Long Island

North Shore-LIJ Medical Group
North Shore-LIJ Medical Group is a multi-specialty group practice with more than 2,000 world-class physicians who provide exceptional care utilizing the extensive resources of North Shore-LIJ Health System. The clinical excellence of our physicians is complemented by our connection to The Feinstein Institute for Medical Research and Hofstra North Shore-LIJ School of Medicine, enabling our doctors to be at the forefront of innovation, research and education. With nearly four million patient visits a year to our physicians, North Shore-LIJ Medical Group provides patient-centric care for people of all ages. Our services span the continuum of healthcare from primary care to advanced surgery and treatments at easily accessible facilities throughout the New York metropolitan area. For more information, please visit us at nslijdocs.com.

Occupational and Environmental Medicine of Long Island (OEMLI)
2035 Lakeville Road, Suite 300
New Hyde Park, New York 11040
(516) 492-3297

487 Lake Avenue
St. James, New York 11780
(631) 686-6390

www.northshorelij.com/hospitals/services-and-programs/occupational-health-medicine

Commitment to Unions
North Shore-LIJ Occupational and Environmental Medicine of Long Island works in partnership with Prevention Now, a wellness program for union members.

Keeping union members healthy and healthcare costs low
Quality Care, Lower Costs, Enhanced Member Satisfaction

Introducing Occupational and Environmental Medicine Services for Unions and Benefit Funds

North Shore-LIJ Occupational and Environmental Medicine of Long Island (OEMLI) partners with unions and benefit funds to enhance the quality of care members receive and lower overall healthcare costs. With over 60 years of experience and a profound understanding of workplaces throughout the New York metropolitan area, our board certified specialists will review your records, evaluate your work environments and provide care to your members. We offer solutions and recommend ways you can prevent injuries and illnesses before they happen – keeping your members healthy and productive and your healthcare-related costs down.

Our goal is to provide your union or benefit fund with:

- Healthier members who feel positive about their union and their benefits
- High-quality, affordable healthcare for union members
- Lower healthcare and disability claims and costs
- Increased productivity with fewer lost work days via reductions in absenteeism and presenteeism
- Decreased healthcare costs through expert determination of work-related causes of injuries and illnesses

The Occupational Health Clinic Network (OHCN) of New York State

OEMLI is the New York State Department of Health’s designated center on Long Island for the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of occupational and environmental diseases. With more than 25 years of experience in caring for the workers of New York State, the Occupational Health Clinic Network is the nation’s only state-based program of its kind. The clinics are available to all workers, retirees and residents in New York State. No worker will be turned away because of an inability to pay, and the OHCN clinics can bill directly to most major health insurance carriers.

Wellness and Prevention Programs to Enhance Health

As part of North Shore-LIJ Health System, we offer a wide range of prevention, education and treatment programs that benefit you and your members, including:

- On-site health fair screenings for high blood pressure, diabetes and cholesterol, which can be done on a periodic basis at job sites or at meetings
- Annual flu vaccination programs offered at job sites, meetings or our clinics
- Healthy lifestyle campaigns for tobacco cessation, nutrition and exercise

Clinical Services for Healthy Members

North Shore-LIJ occupational medicine clinicians provide comprehensive medical evaluations, monitoring and treatment of members performing at-risk jobs, such as those working in and around:

- Silica and asbestos
- Lead
- Solvents
- Dust and other respiratory irritants

With an understanding of the challenging work environments of many union members, we offer a full range of medical care for all job-related health issues your members may have, such as:

- Workplace injuries and disability assessments
- Lower back strains and injuries
- Repetitive stress injuries and illnesses

Additional clinical services include:

- CDL and DOT medical evaluations
- Medical surveillance evaluations (asbestos, silica, diesel fumes, lead, etc.)
- DOT and OSHA required exams and screenings
- Pre-employment physicals and fitness-for-duty services
- Independent medical evaluations
- Respirator fit testing
- Drug and alcohol testing
- Hearing assessments
- Assessments of job-specific functional capacity